CITY NEWS.

—The one story brick house, No. 177 Adams street was damaged early yesterday morning by fire to the extent of $50. The fire was caused by a defective stove.

—It is announced that the first through freight train over the Memphis, Brunswick and Atlantic extension of the Kansas City road to New Albany will be sent out next Tuesday.

—Oliver Bowden, the colored man who is charged with a criminal assault upon Hattie West, a respectable and modest mulatto girl, was found guilty in the Orleans Court yesterday and sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary.

—The reception to be given the Harper-Johnson party will take place in the private Hotel, from 8 to 11 o'clock, on the evening of Wednesday, December 8th. A full representation of our society people is expected to be present.

—Trustee Andrew Harris was interviewed by an Appeal reporter yesterday, and said that he would, when the mandamus issued against him came up for hearing, show good cause why he should not turn over delinquent poll-tax lists to G. K. Weatherford.

—The ladies of the First Presbyterian Church will give a novel entertainment next Friday night, December 10th, at the church parlors. The traditional "Old Woman that Lived in Her Shoe" will be there with her numerous progeny, and furnish amusement for young and old.

—Marriage licenses were issued yesterday to T. R. Steffy and Mrs. Mattie Yates, Thos. Schavens (colored) and Mary Stanford (colored), Luis Rankin (colored) and Annie Trigg (colored), Walter L. Brooks and Miss Lena Lape, Harry Smith (colored) and Jennie Evans (colored).

—Sleigh riding became suddenly fashionable yesterday, but Memphis has grown too metropolitan to notice such things. Time was when the occupants of sleighs were pelted with snowballs. But we have outgrown that feature of provincialism, and nowadays a sleigh attracts little more notice than a street car.

—Dr. W. E. Bogue, Eugene Daniels and B. A. Venable and their congregations will unite with the pastor and congregation of the Central Baptist Church this evening in holding a special memorial service to the late Dr. Sylvanus Landrum. The services will be of general interest to this community, and all are cordially invited.

—The following chancery sales were made yesterday: Lot 10, block 62, Dixon subdivision, 70x150 feet, on west side of Walnut street, to M. C. Pearce for $1547; lot 11, block 62, Dixon subdivision, on Porter street, to M. C. Pearce for $128; 172 acres on Pigeon Point road, known as the Bethel place, to Mrs. Daniela Wheeler for $4000.

—Mrs. W. H. Horton, Superintendent of Public Instruction, sends us the following: "Owing to the inclemency of the weather there was no meeting of the Shelby County Reading Circle yesterday. The members are requested to meet next Saturday, when a full attendance is desired, as the program, course reading, have arrived, and we do not wish to get behind other circles in the State."

—Mansfield's Christmas display is now ready, and embraces a wealth of pretty things heretofore unrivaled even at that popular establishment. Toilet cases of bronze, covered with plush, and valued at $150, are among the expensive novelties for sale. The Christmas cards are particularly beautiful, and all the goods exhibited are notable for new and tasteful designs and exquisite workmanship.

—The following named gentlemen on the Day Reception Committee for the Inman Harper party are requested to meet at the Mississippi and Tennessee railroad depot at 9:15 o'clock tomorrow (Monday) morning to go down the Louisville, New Orleans and Texas road in a special car and meet the invited guests: D. P. Hadden, chairman; W. J. Chiss, T. B. Treasvant, J. T. Fargason, Emmet Woodson, J. S. Menken, James Poelen, J. M. Phillips.

J. W. Dillard, W. W. Schoolfield, J. T. Pettit and E. A. Keeling.

—Joseph H. Hayes, aged 30 years, a switchman of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, was run over by a freight train of that road at 1 o'clock p.m. yesterday at the foot of Main street, receiving injuries from which he subsequently died. The train was backing and Hayes foolishly walked in advance of it at a slow gait, instead of availing himself of the adjoining track. Deputy Coroner Barry held an inquest, but could discover no culpability on the part of anyone concerned in the accident.
